

South Australian News
The Best Of Our State

Glam Adelaide

Member Of The Week
My Wedding Magazine

HOME ARTS BREAKING NEWS BUSINESS COMPETITIONS ELECTION EVENT NEWS FASHION FEATURED GALLERY LIFESTYLE MUSIC PROFILES
ABOUT BUSINESS DIRECTORY CONTACT US EVENT DIARY FASHION DIRECTORY SUBSCRIBE

Alannah Hill Boutique to open on Rundle Street

Posted by Naomi Fantoni on Mar 17th, 2010 and filed under Breaking News, Fashion. You can follow any responses to this entry through the RSS 2.0. You can leave a response or trackback to this entry.

Rundle Street is rapidly becoming the style mecca for Adelaide and it is about to grow this May with the opening of Alannah Hill's first South Australian boutique.

Hill is known for her exquisite and feminine designs which is set to transcend through the design of her boutique. Designer David Hicks has restored the 19th century building to its former beauty and set the tone with vintage Italian murano chandeliers with feather shaped fronds hanging from the almost 5 meter high ceilings.

The dressing rooms are set to be the most glamorous in Adelaide with floor to ceiling Hollywood lights and pink silk wallpaper accentuated with crystal flower wall lights and vintage wall hooks.

"The Interior of my stores is so important to me. I am always on the look out for ideas that reflect my girly whimsical clothing. Ideally I like to create a little magical world where customers feel excited, charmed and loved." - Alannah Hill

www.alannahhill.com.au

Rating: 0.0/5 (0 votes cast)

Advertisement

LIZA EMANUELE

RECENTLY COMMENTED

- Fashion Workshop with Jennifer Hawkins
- The Hurt Locker
- Ngurrumilmarmiriyu (Wrong Skin) - Festival
- The BEST of the BIGGEST Fringe Festival
- Adelaide United Dismantle Shandong In China With Memorable Victory
- Dance For Your Life

PHOTO GALLERY

Future Music 2010
Photos

Wear Red Race Day
Photos

2010 Adelaide Cup
Photos

WOMAdelaide 2010
Performer Photos

